WASHINGTON, June 6 .- The president sent the house a message vetoing the general deficiency appropria-tion bill. The message includes a defense of the exercise of the veto power, together with a long criticism of the French spoilation claims aggregating over a million dollars, and sets forth his objection to the payment of the Chouteau claim for $174,445, arising out of the construction of the iron clad steam battery,

The house committee on appro priations now has the deficiency bill with the claims objected to by the president eliminated. As soon as the veto of the deficiency bill is sustained, as expected it will be, Chairman Cannon will ask for the consideration of the new bill. It is believed it can pass immediately.

New York, June 6.-Bradstreets says: General trade continues depressed in almost all lines. The demand is smaller than a week ago, and requests for and offerings of commercial paper have dereased. Mercantile collections continue complained of, and the tendency of prices particularly of cereals, sugar, coffee, pork products, cotton and cotton goods, and iron and steel continues downward. There is a moderate increase in demand for dry goods at Chicago, but business generally is disappointing. The check to trade at St. Louis is in part the result of delays in distribution of merchandise on account of the late storm. LONDON, June 6.-Representatives several peace and arbitration societies gave a reception at Morey lodge yesterday afternoon to Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York York World. In addition to the delegates from these societies the company included Cardinal Vaughn, Sir Lewis Morris, Hon. Rev. Carr Glynn, Sir James Reckile, Sir Robert Head Cook (editor of The Daily News), and Henry first place among medicines.

Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal. A vellum engrossed address vas presented to Pulitzer and read. The address alludes to the present pause in the negotiations over the Venezuelan question and hopes to see fresh evidence that the parties are likely to arrive at a settle ment. It dwells at length upon the desire of both nations for permanent arbitration and closes with a renewed tribute to Pulitzer and The World.

Making a Lion of Our Joseph

The reading of the address was muc applauded, and a number of speeches followed. Cardinal Vaughn, after complimenting the guest, said: "Your great efforts were widely appreciated. But your ask is far from complete. You, with us, must desire and must work for a permanent tribunal. It has been my happiness and my privilege to be here and to add my tribute of respect.'

Sir Robert Head Cook, editor of the Daily News, spoke of the services rendered to the profession of journalism by Pulitzer's action. After several similar speeches zer's action. After several similar speeches Pulitzer came forward to reply, and was greeted with loud applause. He said: "I am deeply touched. Unfortunately I am an invalid and under a doctor's orders;
therefore I ask permission that my response may be read by a young American friend, my son."

Will Have Peace, a la Buck Fanshaw. Joseph Pulitzer then read his father's reply in part as follows: "I feel that you come to do honor to a principle and not to a person. I know of no purely moral sentiment that has been advanced in England since the abolition of slavery that annuals so strongly to the mind and bear appeals so strongly to the mind and heart as this idea of substituting civilized methods of peace and reason for barbarism and needless war. True Americanism means arbitration. If the great republic across the Atlantic stands for anything it stands for the reign of reason as opposed to the reign of force; for argument, powerful discussion and lawful adjustment, as opposed to passion and war. America is proud of the fact that arbitration is an American idea. The war-cloud that recently passed over America was only made possible by an unfortunate refusal of arbitration.

How Is This, Brother Salisbury? "But the chief danger was passed when England recognized the An mission now sitting at Washington. That was really the first step towards arbitration. When England accepted our and tactful offer of facilities, she insure a peaceful settlement of the question. She did not only recognize it, but she also submitted her claim and case to it with all the evidence in her possession. The outcome will be peace—peace with a bet-ter understanding, with friehdlier good will, with kindlier feeling.

Who is to Decide as to the Issue? trust that there will be either a treaty or a tribunal making it impossible for the two nations to go to war about any issue that does not involve the national independence, the national honor, or the nationa existence. There are certain issues that are not arbitrable. War against a cruci despotism or slavery Americans regard as not only just, but as inevitable. They believe in the French revolution. They naturally sympathize with the uprising of any people against despotism, whether in Greece or Hungary or Poland in the past, or in Cuba today."

The reading of the address was interspersed with many cries of "hear," "hear," and was loudly applauded at the conclu-

YEARNED FOR CAMPOS BLOOD.

The Gory-Minded Letter Borero Wrote the Marshal. MADRID, June 6 .- A jury of honor, composed of generals, will be appointed to arrange the dispute between Marshal Martinez de Campos and General Borero. There has existed, it is said, for a conside time ill-feeling between Campos and Borero, the latter believing that Campos had been his enemy for years and had recently exerted himself to get Borero's election as senator from Cuenca annulled. He therefore addressed a letter conched in the following, or similar terms to General Cam-

"Having heard of the underhand work your excellency is organizing with the ob-ject of annulling my election as senator from Cuenca and taking into account that from Cuenca and taking into account that for fourteen years you have been prejudic-ing me in my profession and that in this world everything must have an end, my patience is exhausted. I have a pair of pistols at your disposal. I am inclined to do for you what the Cuban insurgents failed to do."

Thereupon General Campos sent his seconds to demand retraction or satisfaction. A meeting resulted at Villa Olea The minister of war appeared on the scene and failing to get their word of honor from the principals that they would not fight placed both of them under arrest. The matter remains thus at present.

It appears that the captain general of Madrid went to the grounds of the Mar quis of Cabrinana, which was the rendez yous of the disputants, and prevent the duel. The inarquis tried to stop the captain general from entering his grounds, but the latter asserted his military authority, entered and placed the combatants under arrest. It is believed that the duel

PARIS, June 6.—The committee of the chamber of deputies has unanimously ap-proved the bill making Madegascar a proved the bill making Madagascar a French colony. Previous to so doing the committee was addressed by M. Hanotaux, the minister for foreign affairs, who stated that the United States government in a firm and clear dispatch had insisted upon the necessity of a categorical declaration regarding the annexation. Hanotaux added that the government of Great Britiain had also urged that the treaties between Madagascar and foreign powers existed until the annexation of that island was proclaimed by France. The French government, therefore, was obliged to ask the chamber to approve the annexation of the island of Madagascar to France in order to clear up the situation.
